

Logosynthesis training programs recognized by professional associations in Switzerland and Germany.

Logosynthesis is gaining recognition in the medical community as an integrative model for psychotherapy to support healing and development. Through the work of certified Trainers in Logosynthesis, the following organizations currently recognize training programs being offered to their members:

Swiss Association of Psychiatry and Psychotherapy recognizes a 3-year advanced training program in psychotherapy:

The Institute for Logosynthesis Switzerland, owned by Dr. med Suzanne von Blumenthal, offers a special 3-year advanced training program in 2-day seminars for medical doctors, psychiatrists, psychologists and clinical psychotherapists. This further training in psychotherapy is offered in accordance with the guidelines of the Swiss Association of Psychiatry and Psychotherapy with 12 credits awarded for each seminar. The entire training course for new psychiatrists contains: 168 hours of theory and practice; 100 hours of supervision; and 66 hours of personal work. This is a total of 332 hours or 52 days. It is also possible to complete the Practitioner in Logosynthesis certification.

Swiss Association for Counseling recognizes a federal Diploma course for psychosocial counseling in Logosynthesis:

The Institute for Logosynthesis Switzerland also offers a federal Diploma course for psychosocial counseling in Logosynthesis, with a total of 486 hours of theory, practical work, supervision and personal coaching. In this 3-year training program, participants learn to accompany clients in crises and life changes on the basis of Logosynthesis. This diploma course is recognized by the Swiss Society for Counseling and by the federal government. Upon completion of a higher professional examination.

Berlin Medical Association recognizes Logosynthesis for CME training points for all doctors and psychotherapists in Germany:
